

Shengyao is a traditional Chinese art form that uses thousands of small, golden-brown, leaf-like pieces to create a large, illuminated rectangular panel. The pieces are meticulously arranged to form a dense, textured surface that glows with a warm, golden light. The word "SHENGYAO" is printed in white, uppercase letters across the center of the panel. The panel is hanging from a dark ceiling by a thin wire. The background is dark, and the floor is a light-colored concrete or stone.

Shengyao is a traditional Chinese art form that uses thousands of small, golden-brown, leaf-like pieces to create a large, illuminated rectangular panel. The pieces are meticulously arranged to form a dense, textured surface that glows with a warm, golden light. The word "SHENGYAO" is printed in white, uppercase letters across the center of the panel. The panel is hanging from a dark ceiling by a thin wire. The background is dark, and the floor is a light-colored concrete or stone.