

The pink agate raw materials selected for the translucent pink agate floor tile have been strictly screened to ensure clear texture, warm color and uniform texture. During the processing, advanced cutting and polishing technology is used to accurately cut the agate slab into the required size and shape, and the surface is finely polished to make it smooth and delicate to the touch, while retaining the natural texture and texture of the agate. Translucent pink agate flooring also requires a professional construction team during the installation process. They will use appropriate installation methods and accessories based on the characteristics and design requirements of the floor to ensure that the floor is installed firmly, flatly, and can match the surrounding decorations. The materials are perfectly connected to create an overall aesthetic effect.

Backlit pink agate flooring tiles, with its excellent light transmittance, exquisite natural texture and wide range of application scenarios, has become the favorite material of many designers and owners in the fields of modern architecture and interior decoration that pursue high quality and unique design. It not only adds a touch of luxury and artistic atmosphere to the space, but also finds a perfect balance between practicality and beauty.

1. Translucency - the creator of dreamy light and shadow

The biggest charm of translucent pink agate flooring is its stunning light transmission effect. When the light shines up from below the floor, the unique texture of the pink agate seems to be given life, spreading a dreamlike light and shadow pattern on the ground. This light transmittance is not uniform and straightforward, but is refracted and scattered through layers of the natural structure of agate, making the light soft and hazy, creating a mysterious and charming atmosphere. Whether with the help of natural light during the day or with the lighting system at night, the translucent pink agate floor can become the most eye-catching focus in the space, bringing a unique visual experience to the indoor environment.
