

Backlit Brown Agate Slab (Spider silk yellow agate slab) is a natural translucent semi-precious stone slab, its biggest feature is its good light transmittance. Brown agate is a translucent natural stone with rich colors and unique textures. When light passes through, this stone will show fascinating changes in color and texture, as if there are flowing light and shadow inside, giving people a dreamlike visual experience.

Translucency

Translucency is the most notable feature of large brown agate slabs. By adding a light source behind the panel, the entire panel can have a uniform light transmission effect. This effect not only enhances the light in the room, but also creates a warm and soft atmosphere. Whether during the day or at night, the translucent brown agate slab can show its unique charm.

Custom size

Brown agate slabs can be customized according to customer needs. Whether it is a large-area wall covering or a small-sized countertop application, it can be cut and processed according to specific needs. This flexibility allows the brown agate large slab to adapt to various design needs and meet the decorative requirements of different spaces.

Application areas

The application range of backlit brown agate slabs is very wide, mainly including the following aspects:

Background wall: backlit brown agate slab can be used as background wall materials, especially in areas such as living rooms, bedrooms or entrances. Through the illumination of light sources, the background wall can present a unique visual effect and enhance the overall space.

Flooring: Due to its durability and beauty, brown agate slabs can also be used for floor decoration. Under the illumination of the light source, the floor will show soft light, increasing the layering of the space.

Kitchen countertops: brown agate slabs can be used to make kitchen countertops. They are not only beautiful and elegant, but also have good durability and stain resistance. The light-transmitting feature can add an artistic touch to the cooking process.

Bar counters and islands: In bars, restaurants or family entertainment areas, brown agate slabs can be used to decorate bars and islands. Through the combination of light sources, you can create a warm and stylish atmosphere and enhance the style of the overall space.